The Ann E. Pitzer Center will contain a 399 seat recital hall, designed to accommodate large music lecture classes, as well as small to medium instrumental and choral performances.
The Manetti Shrem Museum of Art will serve as a teaching and cultural resource for the entire campus community. It will provide space for galleries, seminars, research and public gatherings.
The Memorial Union Renewal creates new open spaces for student gatherings and study, enhances Campus Stores and ASUCD venues, and reinforces the MU as the front door to the campus.
The Earth and Planetary Sciences Shockwave Lab provides research space to study planet formation and evolution with a focus on collisional processes.
The International Center Phase 1 provides classrooms, offices and event spaces for the Center for International Education, and offices and administration spaces for other international programs.
